BANQUET HAMS

Are Not the Ordinary Kind

In curing ordinary hams some packers at several times during the process force the pickle into the ham by mechanical process, thus hastening the completion of the finished product, but greatly deteriorating same, making it salty and tasteless.

BANQUET HAMS

are never "pumped," but lie in a mild pickle of our secret formula for about 75 days, when they are smoked in the old-fashioned way with hickory wood.

They are all U. S. Government inspected and passed and so marked.
